BUILDING BLOCKS

10 Suggestions for a New Academic Dean

(Monforti and Kypuros, 2019)

- Explain Yourself
- This job is different from any other you've held
- Listen. A lot. And then strategize
- You have only a few peers on your campus
- Prepare to compromise
- Set the tone and share your vision
- When in doubt, focus on the students
- Find a few mentors with administrative experience
- There is no I in "Dean"
- Be accessible but not "on call"

The Burnout Problem

Defining burnout

“Burnout is a psychological syndrome emerging as a prolonged response to chronic interpersonal stressors on the job. The three key dimensions of this response are an overwhelming exhaustion, feelings of cynicism and detachment from the job, and a sense of ineffectiveness and lack of accomplishment.”

The ongoing feeling that today's resources aren't enough to meet tomorrow's demands.

The three dimensions of burnout

Emotional Exhaustion

You have nothing left to give

Depersonalization

You start to “un-person” people

Reduced Personal Accomplishment

You criticize what you used to celebrate

Full-time worker burnout

23%

Very often or always

44%

Sometimes

“That means about two-thirds of full-time workers experience burnout on the job.”

National Spending on Healthcare

One of the largest factors in these costs was high demands at work/workplace stress responsible for an estimated $190 billion in spending.

Workism

Burnout emerges in the gap between our ideals and the reality of our work. The greater this gap is, the bigger the pain we experience in our jobs.

~ Jonathan Malesic

Psychology Today

- Burnout rates in academia have reached a shocking new high.
- 50% of academics are depressed, and 30% are experiencing daily burnout symptoms.
- Perceived challenges with management and dramatically changing job expectations have contributed to the crisis.
- Only doctors and nurses have a higher risk of burning out than educators.

~Woods, 2023

In 2020, American workers across the board saw heightened rates of burnout, and according to APA's 2021 Work and Well-being Survey of 1,501 U.S. adult workers, 79% of employees had experienced work-related stress in the month before the survey.

As many as 87% of college students surveyed across the U.S. cited education as their primary source of stress (APA, 2020).

In 2021, ACE shared that the mental health of faculty and staff members was the third most pressing concern for college presidents.

American Council on Education (ACE)

In general, it's been a destabilizing time to perform the essential duties of being a professor: teaching, research, and service.

Artificial Intelligence and Fear

Falling Behind: Anxiety over technological change is escalating, especially related to AI. Researchers and therapists offer all sorts of ways to deal with it. (Wall Street Journal, Why New Technology Is So Stressful at Work—and What to Do About It, 2023).

Dramatic change: AI is revolutionary and being compared to the internet itself, which leads to discomfort for some due to the uncertainty of what it means (Psychology Today, 2023).

Elimination of some jobs: Many jobs held by humans could be handled by AI systems, causing potential large-scale unemployment and subsequent adverse economic impacts (Psychology Today, 2023).

EMPOWERING WELLNESS WORLDWIDE

The Global Wellness Institute defines wellness as the active pursuit of activities, choices and lifestyles that lead to a state of holistic health.

Because people spend so much time at work, occupational wellness is a particularly important component of overall well-being.

People with good occupational wellness find their work rewarding, have good relationships with co-workers, and find positive ways to handle workplace stress, all while also finding a good work-life balance.

PRACTICE OVER PERFECTION

A group of four diverse volunteers, two women and two men, are smiling and posing together outdoors. They are all wearing bright blue t-shirts with the word "VOLUNTEER" printed in white. The background shows a green field and a brick building under a clear sky. A semi-transparent dark grey banner is overlaid at the top of the image, containing the word "VOLUNTEER" in white, bold, uppercase letters.
